WHEREAS, It is just and reasonable to allow interest at a reasonable rate, and

WHEREAS, In accordance with the spirit and letter of the Treaty of Washington it is preferable to adopt a form of adjudication of a sum in gross rather that refer the subject of compensation for discussion and deliberation to the Board of Assessors, provided for in an article of the Treaty of Washington, the Tribunal of Arbitration using the authority conferred on its members by article ten of the treaty a majority of four voices awards to the United States of America a sum of fifteen million five hundred thousand dollars in gold as indemnity to be paid by Great Britain for the use of the American Government for satisfaction of all claims referred to the Arbitrating Tribunal conformably to provisions contained in Article 7 of the Treaty of Washington, and declared all claims which have been referred to it for adjudication are hereby fully, perfectly and finally settled. The court furthermore declares the exchange of every one of said claims, whether the same may or may not have been presented to its notice or laid before the Tribunal, shall henceforth be considered and treated as settled and barred

In testimony whereof the present decision and award has been made in duplicate and signed by the Arbitrators, who have given assent hereto, the whole being in exact conformity with the provisions of the Treaty of Washington Made and concluded at Hotel de Ville, Geneva, Switzerland, September 14th, in the year of our Lord, one thousand eight hundred and seventy two,

The Decision at Geneva—How our Government Views it

NEW YORK Sept 16 —A Washington dispatch says the award of the Geneva Tribunal is received very quietly in official circles Attorney General Williams the only member of the Joint High Commission now in Washington, says the award covers fully all that American members expected could be awarded while the sum is actually short of what the English members conceded might be due under the declaration of Earl Russell as set forth in a correspondence between Mr Adams and the British premier As for the establishment of a new principal of international law it is said on the authority of a representative of the British Government now in Washington, and who is fully posted on the whole question that as long ago as 1866 Russell would have been glad to cancel all legitimate claims against England for more than the amount awarded by the Tribunal provided he could have gained what has now been accomplished for a sum less in dollars but richer in principle to England

In the Board of Supervisors the rules were suspended and railroad subsidy propositions taken up The proposition of the Colorado Co passed to print by 11 ayes to 1 no A motion was made to reconsider which motion was lost An order to submit the Atlantic and Pacific proposition to the people was introduced and read Menzies advocated its passage to print and said that unless the Board gave it a fair show with the Colorado proposition it would look as if the members had been 'seen' Forbes opposed the order as did Story Both contended that it was opposed to the interests of the city Story gave a short history of the organization of the Committee of One Hundred, and said it had muddled and spoiled the railroad business He intimated that Stanford was manipulating the Atlantic and Pacific Company Menzies contended stoutly for the order King spoke against the order and contended that if it passed, all the propositions for subsidies might be carried at the election and the city be saddled with a debt of twenty five millions The motion to pass to print was lost, it receiving only two votes The order was then indefinitely postponed which kills the Atlantic and Pacific subsidy for another year at least The Central Pacific Railroad proposition is under discussion and will probably pass The attendance at the Board was larger than has been known for months

NOTICE.

A Personal Campaign

On the 20th of September [illegible] less than one year ago one of the largest public mass meetings ever [illegible] of Illinois was held at Springfield and was addressed by Senator Trumbull. Comparing the subjoined extract from his speech on that occasion with his utterances since he resolved to become an actor in the great Cincinnati and Baltimore farce and taking Mr Trumbull as a specimen of the Liberal Republican element in the Greeley party one does not find himself forced into the adoption of any very exalted opinions of that class of virtuous and incorruptible Republicans. Mr Trumbull said

I have indicated the reform which I believe to be necessary, such a reform General Grant recommended in his annual message at the commencement of the last session in December a reform by which men shall be appointed to these inferior offices for their qualifications and integrity and attachment to the government, and not because of the political service they have rendered a particular man. There are also other reforms in government that are to be brought about. How is all this to be accomplished? That is the great question that is going to be submitted to the American people in the next election. The war is over—the contest is done.

Now, what political organizations will be safest for the American people? Hereafter where shall we look? Shall we look to that party which brought upon the government civil war to that party which ruined the credit of the nation so that it could not borrow money at less than from 12 to 30 per cent per annum to that party which inaugurated the doctrine that to the victors belong the spoils to that party which now desires further to depreciate the currency of the country by issuing millions and millions more of it. If it is believed by the American people no matter to what party they belong, Republican or Democratic that the Government of the country will be safest in the hands of those men, that the men, many of whom sought to destroy the Government, will be more likely to preserve it than those who fought for its existence, that the men who ruined its credit will be more likely to prove it than they who when it was ruined have already re-established it to a great extent if you look for reform to them then it is the duty of the voter to go to the polls and vote with the Democratic party. But if the people of this country believe that economy has been introduced into the public service since the Republican party took possession of the Government if they believe that the Government is more secure and the rights of the citizens better protected free speech and free press in all parts of the land, better secured than under that organization then it is their duty to vote with the Republican party. The ship of State ten years ago, was crippled—it had been run upon the quicksands and rocks, and was falling to pieces. The Republican party took possession of her. They have been sailing her for the last ten years not only over boisterous waves of political commotion, but through terrific tornadoes of civil war and they have brought the noble old ship upon a peaceful ocean strengthened in all her parts magnificent in all her proportions and there she now rides in peace and prosperity and there is outside, the Democratic party, beating around among the seas, driven for ten years hither and thither by every wind of passion taking a new departure, and seeking to find the old ship. If you believe that they can man her better and sail her more safely put them in possession of her, but if you think men who saved her are the best to steer her safely hereafter, into the haven of peace and prosperity for the American people then keep them at the helm. [Applause]

We have no recollection of President Grant's having changed his views, his personal habits or the policy of his administration in any particular, since this high encomium upon his course was pronounced nor have we observed any change in the principles of that party to which Mr Trumbull then belonged and to which he paid this fine tribute. That Mr Trumbull and his associates who have forsaken the Republican party should have taken that step before the echoes of this address and others similar to it made by themselves, had ceased to reverberate, and without any tangible cause, is not explainable upon other than merely personal grounds. The present contest, so far as the "Liberal Republicans" are engaged in it, is manifestly nothing but an effort of disappointed politicians to take revenge upon the President for his unwillingness to submit to their dictation. All the more conspicuous leaders of the movement are men who have grievances to be redressed against Grant. Banks stupidity cost the Government an army and a campaign on the Red River during the war and General Grant said officially that the interests of the service demanded his removal. Greeley and Fenton made a joint demand that the President should turn over to them the Federal patronage of New York, and he refused to comply with the demand. Trumbull asked for a batch of appointments, somewhat over a dozen in number which the President did not think he ought to grant. We might continue the list ad libitum. Let the reader call to mind, if he can, a prominent supporter of Greeley who has been a Republican and whose position may not be explained by reference to some personal disappointment which he lays at the door of President Grant. We have tried [illegible] think of such a case.

The impossibility of drawing the great mass of any party into the personal [illegible] or ambitious aims of a few of its members is illustrated in the meagerness of [illegible] Republicans who have deserted the candidates of their party to assist Greeley and Sumner in their schemes of revenge and selfish [illegible] of power. The patriotic and unambitious who constitute the voting strength of the party still cling to the old organization and support its chosen standard bearers [illegible] standing some of those who have deserted it are men who were once its honored leaders. No name is potent enough to break the allegiance of the masses away from that organization which came to the rescue of the nation and saved it from impending ruin when it seemed tottering to its fall and which has devoted its undivided efforts ever since the end of the great conflict to the restoration of that good feeling among the people of the entire country upon which [illegible] of our Government and the perpetuity of [illegible] institutions depend.

Here is a letter from H[illegible] to Mr Cornell which explains it [illegible] other matter

[illegible]

Dear Sir [illegible] you, and the committee of which [illegible] are the head that I am obliged to decline the [illegible] assigned me by the State Committee [illegible] the Republican [illegible]

[illegible]

Respectfully [illegible]

The caucus called for last night to nominate a candidate for the United States Senate could not be considered a very brilliant success notwithstanding the immense amount of threatening and thimble rigging done to force Republican members into this method of settling the question against their convictions of [illegible]

The [illegible] of yesterday announces that [illegible] it will be a Republican journal. We are glad to see the announcement. The Bulletin will be able to render the party more efficient service as an avowed Republican organ than as an independent paper. We cordially greet the Bulletin as a co-worker. There is to be no change of editor.

A Japanese vessel manned by Japanese sailors, navigated by a Japanese master and under the Japanese flag has just arrived at San Francisco with a cargo of tea for the American market. This is suggestive of the future of that people under the liberal Government which they now have.

Disappointed loss of party struggle. How is that? Will a man ought to have his [illegible] changed into a mere stray who will persist in writing so illegibly that he can't read it himself.

FROM THE CAPITAL

FROM OUR [illegible] CORRESPONDENT

Salem Oregon, Sept 16 1872

It is a doubtful question whether the stillness of the past twenty four hours has been the product of the Sabbath or the calm that precedes the storm. Certain it is that the angry waves of political discord have seemed to subside. The absence of politicians put an end to strife and the few remaining strangers united with the staid citizens in attendance on church and the classic amusement of lunch. A friend insisted that I ought to have gone with him to Church. Why? said he no one could be offended. Not a word was said about politics or religion. But I don't believe him.

A stroll through the town includes the ascent of the Salem Water Works of which the city is justly proud. Procuring a key you unlock a gate and commence climbing a circular stairway which winds round a post made by splicing timbers together with nails the whole affair being unpleasantly suggestive of a fall. The constant gyrations give the same experience as childhood's ring around a rosy and I he can't help thinking that the sequel "drop down posey," would be more striking than pleasant. Once at the top you are rewarded with the sight of a wooden box partly full of water and green moss, and turning from that you see a beautiful panorama spread at your feet in the State Capital its church spires and isolated brick buildings standing out in bold relief from a ground of house tops, peeping through trees and foliage of all shades from the dark green of the fir and oak to the golden hue which the soft maple is just now beginning to assume, while far away the grain and stubble fields of Polk and Marion dotted with pleasant dwellings and interspersed with fringes of woodland and meadow back of that the sombre hills, and through them all the silvery Wallamet winding its peaceful way form a picture to gladden the heart and kindle the eye of every one who feels the least sympathy with Nature.

SUBSTANTIAL IMPROVEMENTS

Nor has art refused to contribute her share of pleasure to the scene. In addition to the many neat and comfortable houses, stores factories etc, with which all visitors are familiar you see the Chemeketa House a poor speculation for its projectors no doubt, but a credit to the city and the State the Opera House which stands without an equal in Oregon the University just now a greater source of satisfaction because it is at last fully out of debt. Then there are in course of construction the M E Church, commenced last year and now reaching to the second story, the Court House commenced this spring and being pushed forward with alacrity the workmen being now engaged on the third story an immense warehouse is being erected by Mr Myers and others for a manufactory of agricultural machinery and the residence of Hon E N Cooke which is not to be surpassed by any building of the kind in your city. Other buildings of minor importance are in process of construction and everything betokens that the people of Salem are an enterprising and progressive community.

RETURNING

The wandering refugees who stampeded last Saturday as though Salem again had the small pox are coming in from all directions this morning and bringing many accessions to the third house. Portland is represented by a large train load each of whom feels that the salvation of the country and of his own interests depends on his own exertions for or against a caucus. There seems to be but little attention paid to the probable result of such a meeting—the main question being whether it is best for the party to hold one at this time or to do as on some former occasions and try the strength of the candidates in public. It is settled that a part of the party will meet to-night but whether that part will take any vote and in that case whether they will claim such vote to be by authority of the Republican party remains to be seen. The general opinion seems to be that a vote will be taken and that but four names will be presented Corbett Williams Mitchell and Holladay and that the meeting will then dissolve. Many of the friends of Corbett and Williams will not consent to attend, as they deem such a meeting unnecessary and the means taken to hold one to be improper. How far these surmises are correct you will, no doubt learn by telegraph before this goes to press.

Mr [illegible] who has had charge of the improvements in the Wallamet river under Major Roberts U S A has to-day returned from Humphrey's rapids which he has opened a channel by the construction of 300 feet of wing dam. His next work is at [illegible] where there is some 300 feet of similar [illegible] This is a good work and [illegible] their contributions of [illegible] for Mr Corbett's senatorial cup.

Man being twenty years growing lives five times twenty years that is say one hundred [illegible] five times eight years that is to say forty years the horse [illegible] growing and [illegible] twenty five years [illegible] mals [illegible] years [illegible] and [illegible] Infancy extends to the [illegible] after the fiftieth [illegible] which the organism remains complete [illegible] seventy old age commences

Horace Greeley's Shameless Proposition to Barter Office for Votes

From the Washington Chronicle

It has not been customary in this country for candidates for the Presidency to take the stump in their own behalf. They have generally been willing to leave this work to their personal and political friends. It is thought to be in bad taste. And candidates have generally conformed to the public sense of propriety in this respect. We call to mind but one exception to the rule. [illegible] Stephen A Douglas after his nomination for the Presidency in 1860 took a trip through the Southern States and made political speeches in the chief cities [illegible] account of the [illegible] part of the country [illegible] expect to [illegible] questions [illegible] the purpose of [illegible] other instance can be [illegible] for the Presidency has during the canvass made a speech or two in which he has discussed some great public question. But no one from the first until the advent of Horace Greeley now nearly 100 years has traversed the country from State to State and from town to town as a stump orator making personal appeals in his own favor. Not honest arguments in favor of the principles of the political party to which he professes to be attached but partly mercenary considerations appealing to the cupidity and ambition of his political opponents as well as political friends for votes. This exhibition of bad taste and [illegible] the justification of any great public necessity. Mr Greeley appears to be stimulated to this course only by his overweening anxiety for success and his inordinate ambition for official distinction.

HORACE GREELEY [illegible] CIVIL SERVICE REFORM

This seems to have blunted his mental perceptions and moral sensibilities and to have so obscured his intellectual vision as to cause him to forget that he was put forward as the champion of civil service reform. He has treated this plank in the Cincinnati platform with utter contempt from the beginning. He at once in his letter of acceptance, promised the Democratic party their full proportion of the Federal offices if they would give him their votes. This promise was made in a not covert phrase which however no trained politician would fail to comprehend.

SENATOR SCHURZ [illegible] ACCOUNT

This apparent bad faith appears to have so shocked Senator Schurz the President of the Cincinnati Convention as to induce him to address Mr Greeley in writing on the specific subject of civil service reform.

SENATOR SCHURZ'S INTERROGATORY

He asked him to state explicitly his views on this subject and to inform the public specifically whether in the event of his election to the Presidency he would make appointments to office as a reward for political or party services.

HORACE GREELEY'S ANSWER

Mr Greeley avoided a direct and explicit answer said he had but little faith in the efficacy of any set of rules for the reform of the civil service eulogized the so called one term principle, and advocated its adoption as the best if not the only mode of securing practical reform.

HE WILL REMOVE HIS OPPONENTS AND APPOINT HIS FRIENDS

No one can read Senator Schurz letter and Mr Greeley's response and avoid the conclusion that the latter wished it to be understood that if elected he would remove his opponents and appoint his friends to office. That this is what he meant by ignoring the past and shaking hands across the bloody chasm can not be doubtful.

GREELEY'S AUGUSTA SPEECH

But if doubt had ever existed as to the meaning on this point it is made clear by his speech delivered a few days since at Augusta, in the State of Maine. In this speech he discusses the subject of appointments to office at considerable length. It appeared to have been the subject of previous meditation. He had matured reflections to present. He approached the subject deliberately, and discussed it methodically. That we may do him no injustice we copy his language verbatim.

Yet there is a truth to be uttered in behalf of those who have placed me before the American people in my present attitude which does them such honor that I claim the privilege of stating here and now. This is the truth. No person has ever yet made the fact known that he proposed to support, or actively did support, my nomination—whether at Cincinnati, at Baltimore or in any action which resulted in sending delegates to either Convention—as a basis of a claim for office at my hands no one who favored my nomination before either Convention or at either Convention, has sought office at my hands either for himself or for any one else nor has any one suggested to me that I might strengthen myself as a candidate by promising to appoint any one to any important office whatever. In a very few instances (less than a dozen I am certain) some of the smaller fry of politicians have since my double nomination hinted to me that I might increase my chances of election by promising a postoffice or some such place to my volunteer correspondents respectively. I have not usually responded to these overtures but I now give general notice that should I be elected I will consider the claims of these untimely aspirants after those of the more modest and reticent shall have been fully satisfied. [Applause] In two or three instances I have been asked to say whether I would or would not if elected continue my appointments to Republicans. I answer these by pointing to the plank in the Cincinnati platform wherein all who concur in the principles therein set forth are cordially invited to participate in the re-establishment and vindication. I never yet heard of a man who invited his neighbors to help him raise a house and proceeded to kick them out of it as soon as the roof was fairly over his head. For my own part I recognize every honest man who approves and adheres to the Cincinnati platform as my political brother, and, as such fully entitled to my confidence and friendly regard.

The reason Mr Greeley assigns for introducing this subject to his Maine audience is that the bearing of his friends is exceptionably honorable and disinterested. He says

There is a truth to be uttered in behalf of those who have placed me before the American people in my present attitude [illegible] that I claim the privilege of stating here and now. What was that remarkable truth which he and his friends such honor as to make silence on his part little less than a crime. He says [illegible] that truth. No person has ever yet made the fact known that he proposed to support or did support me [illegible] at my hands and that no one who [illegible] convention has asked [illegible] for him [illegible] or another.

[illegible]

If Mr Greeley were a child of tender age and not a man of sixty summers, if he were a novice in such matters and had not been in politics as he claims for himself for nearly a half century, if he had not been trained in the school of Thurlow Weed such a bland announcement might be [illegible] of his [illegible] For who but Mr Greeley would have expected that [illegible] his most sanguine friends would have already filed their applications for appointments [illegible] they did so expect the election of [illegible] for [illegible] November to vote will [illegible] three months later and [illegible] can not be inaugurated until March following. On the 11th day of the preceding August Mr Greeley says [illegible] for services previously rendered [illegible] after-performed. And is Mr Greeley [illegible] to think [illegible] modesty and public virtue on the part of his [illegible] the world.

[illegible]

It [illegible] few [illegible] and the [illegible] have [illegible] applied for by [illegible] occasion [illegible] after [illegible] That is to say in plain English none of the [illegible] large, far-off [illegible] few of the small ones, have yet been absolutely promised to anybody. They are still at my disposal and all my friends shall have an equal chance.

HE PROMISES OFFICES TO DEMOCRATS

But he is not willing to leave anything to interfere. He proceeds to state

In two or three instances I have been asked to say whether I would or would not if elected continue my appointments to Republicans.

Now to his answer [illegible] These are his words

I answer these by pointing to the plank in the Cincinnati platform wherein [illegible] participate in the re-establishment and [illegible]

He [illegible] that the [illegible] moral [illegible] his [illegible] He says

I never yet heard of a man who invited his neighbors to help him raise a house and proceeded to kick them out of it as soon as the roof was fairly over his head.

[illegible] the raising [illegible] share the [illegible] the [illegible] every man who can bring a log [illegible] a board shall [illegible] the loaves and fishes. [illegible] to render misapprehension impossible he drops his [illegible] of speech and says in plain words

I recognize every honest man who approves and adheres to the Cincinnati platform as my political brother and, as such fully entitled to my confidence and friendly regard.

This is his full answer to the question "Will you if elected continue your appointments to Republicans?" His answer [illegible] is [illegible] Certainly not. I would be a moral monster if I should. I will give the offices to those who give me votes whoever brings a vote shall have a loaf or a little fish those who have already applied [illegible] preferred to the minor [illegible] of the best offices are yet specifically promised only a very few of the smaller ones such as post offices and so of like have been applied for.

And this is the position of a candidate for the Presidency the reform candidate stumping the country in his own behalf publicly tendering offices to his lifelong opponents for their votes [illegible] anything be more degrading. But this is done in the name of civil service reform. Could by poetry become more unblushing? [illegible] Democrats [illegible] trust [illegible] Will honest Democrats abandon principle and accept the proffered bribe? If so they deserve to be defrauded in the end of the fruits of such a bargain and sale as Mr Sumner boasts the Massachusetts Democrats who voted for him as Senator were cheated by a twenty years war on their ever cherished measure. If their hope in Sumner turned to ashes on their lips would it be safe to trust Greeley? He has already proved faithless to the Republican party. Is it probable that he will be more faithful to the Democracy?

TUESDAY MORNING SEPT 1[illegible] 187[illegible]

CITY.

BAD P[illegible] —It is a subject of frequent remark, tha[illegible] ng in he buildings of this city is very defective Observation will confirm the truth of he remark What the real cause of the trouble is has never yet been satisfactorily explained when he question is asked One of the most plausible reasons for the clumsy and defective character of the plastering in Portland is because buildings are erected with an almost reckless haste so that the wooden material has not time to season The demand for lumber is so great that green logs are sawed up when soaked full of water and in many cases compose different portions of buildings within a few weeks from the time the logs are drawn to the mill Such material is green and must necessarily undergo a course of a few months seasoning process The contraction of the timber produces inequalities of surface. Cracks and seams follow as a matter of course Before the walls of the rooms are half dried the plaster is put on and its surface when hardened must be effected by the shrinking of the wood Often the laths when nailed to the frame are full of sap and water Under such circumstances the plastering could not be expected to adhere to the walls or be prevented from falling off Most of the new buildings present the same result so far as plastering is concerned In the course of a few months the ceiling cracks peels off and is useless to all intents and purposes Another observable fact is that ceilings do not retain the purity of their color here but a short time A few seasons are sufficient to change plastering from an alabaster purity of color to a stained yellow hue This is perhaps attributable to climatic tendencies more than to any other influence After all much depends on the proper admixture of the mortar, the condition of the wood and the manner in which the plastering is applied The moist and dissolving character of Oregon climate may contribute to the general result but certainly not to the extent that is witnessed on entering either brick or wooden buildings in the city Greater care on the part of builders and plasterers and less haste with contractors would certainly be attended with beneficial results and add much to the permanency of plastering Buildings and plastering under such circumstances would be more durable of greater service and resist with better success the coaseless ravages of the elements

INDEPENDENT CHAMPIONS OF THE RED CROSS —There has been quite a temperance revival inaugurated lately in this city through the instrumentality of the above Order Portland Encampment No 7 organized fifteen weeks since at Neuparell Hall, has fifty members Last Saturday night seven persons were initiated into this Encampment, and fifteen more proposed Eureka [illegible]ment No 1, which meets at Multnomah Hall, has initiated members every Tuesday evening for several weeks Several prominent citizens have ceased to use alcoholic stimulants as a beverage," and joined the Order, causing much encouragement The Secretaries are now busy issuing Life Assurance Certificates to the members and recording them in the Mutual Life Record

FIRE AT VANCOUVER —A dwelling house belonging to a Mr Keegan, of Vancouver, was discovered to be in flames last Saturday night about 12 o clock The alarm was communicated at once and a number of citizens of the place and the several fire companies repaired to the scene with all the dispatch possible. The building was entirely wrapt in flames by the time the department arrived on the ground The house was situated in the suburbs of the town, and consequently was impossible to water on the account of the locality Nothing could be done in that event, to save the building and it was entirely consumed The house had not been occupied for nearly a year by any one, and was not furnished The loss is estimated at $1 500 No insurance

CHAOTIC —Fourth street certainly presents now a chaotic appearance Ground is broken for a long distance, and the street is being rapidly reduced to the required grade The railroad track is being raised, gutters along the side walks constructed, and planked portions of the streets torn up. Huge piles of lumber are scattered at close intervals, sawed to the proper length and ready to place down when the grade has been established In fact the street, from B southward to Washington, presents the appearance of a huge work shop yet everything is in confusion A few weeks will be sufficient to transform this street to one of the most handsome thoroughfares in the city.

STILL UNDISTURBED —The old fir tree in front of the Skating Rink, the threatened removal of which has furnished us with several paragraphs, still stands unmolested in its solitude The contractor has not touched it yet although the improvements along Fourth street would seem to [illegible] its speedy removal From the delay we draw favorable inferences, in the old tree's behalf, that the Committee of the City Fathers to whom was referred the petition of numerous citizens to allow the cherished landmark to remain, have concluded to grant the favor

SHUT DOWN —The steam sawmill at the foot of North Front and F streets was temporarily [illegible] last Saturday evening The machinery is being taken down, and will soon be removed to the lower sawmill The accommodations at the latter place are sufficient to allow all the machinery to be operated under the same roof which will be done in a few weeks The two mills thus [illegible] will be the largest one in the State and will only be surpassed on the coast by the [illegible] lumbering establishments at several points on Puget Sound

DEATH OF DR. SEMPLE —Dr J E Semple who has many warm friends on this coast died at Meridan, Mississippi, on the 26th of August of heart disease He was on his way to New Or[illegible] from Port Porter, New York, where he had been stationed for some time when he was suddenly stricken down by the ruthless hand of death In every department of life Dr S was recognized as the soul of honor, and among those who knew him best he will be most sadly missed Peace be to his ashes

MORTUARY RECORD —The following is the list of deaths in this city for the last two weeks [illegible] Saturday September 14th Total number, seven, of which six were males and one female. Four of these were between the ages of [illegible] and thirty years, two between forty and [illegible], and one had reached seventy Of the number four were Americans, one Irish one German and one Chinese

FINE STOCK —By the steamer Cal[illegible] there [illegible] four blooded pigs—two males and two fe[illegible] of the Sussex breed These pigs were im[illegible] directly from England a few months ago by Dr Talmar of Victoria They were purchased a few weeks since by Joseph Oppenheimer of this city, and will be sent at once to Fort Colville for the purpose of improving the breed of swine in that section

P[illegible]ENGERS —The steamer Cal[illegible] which [illegible] at this port yesterday morning from Victoria and way ports, brought the following passengers: Col W S Stone, A H Vandover Mrs E [illegible] and child, Mrs Courtney N Sequin W [illegible], C W Curtis Col J McCraken A McCon[illegible]

[illegible]ED —The County Court appointed yesterday Wm H H Butler, Constable for South [illegible] Precinct, which place has been filled since the election by D Jacobs who was been [illegible] deputized during that time to act as con[illegible]

[illegible]ED —Inspectors Flanders and Lotan made an official visit last week to Oregon City They examined the hulls and boilers of the steamers [illegible] and Success The inspection [illegible] satisfactorily and the license was renewed

STILL IN SESSION —The Board of Equalization [illegible] unable to complete the examination of the [illegible] rolls last week and are still in session The [illegible] will probably be concluded to day or [illegible]

DRAWN UP —The steamer [illegible] was drawn up alongside the Gas Company's wharf yesterday, and her cargo of [illegible] is being [illegible] charged

RESUMED —The man Brady who was [illegible] off the train and severely injured some days ago left the Hospital last Saturday and has resumed work.

CROWDED OUT —An unusual pressure [illegible] precludes the publication of our customary quota of local, State and Territorial news in this issue.

ARRESTED —A man named Kelley was arrested yesterday evening for running into a buggy with his water cart and damaging one of the wheels When remonstrated with in regard to his wanton recklessness he applied such low and coarse epithets to the gentleman in the carriage in the presence of his wife that he was immediately placed in durance vile He paid $13 and was released from custody

THAT BLOODY CHASM —How deep do the Democracy think it is Hell is a small place in comparison The Republican party has been trying to fill it The rebels first dug it They put into it nearly a million soldiers Millions of widows and orphans have shed almost tears enough to fill it [illegible] it put into it general amnesty Congress has pardoned any one that has asked it, and still it is unfilled Greeley sees nothing in it How is he to fill it? Repeal the Ku Klux law? Surrender the State governments to those men who will not ask or have forgiveness for the crimes they have committed? This Government has had the olive branch reaching out to all, but they will not accept it Must we go on our knees and beg them to take it? Must we say "we are wrong forgive us you were right all the time!"—Jacksonville Times

A remarkable surgical operation was performed on the 10th of last June, in Bellevue Hospital upon a Mrs Anna Cooper, who had been under treatment a year for severe burns upon the breast and neck over which a new skin would not form A man's leg having been amputated Dr Alexander B Mott removed from the stump eighty nine pieces of skin each about the size of a silver three cent piece and applied to the burned spots on the flesh of the woman, to which eighty of the pieces finally adhered The treatment resulted in a perfect cure and on the 11th inst Mrs Cooper left the hospital

The Financial Outlook

From the New York Ch[ronicle]

The financial outlook has somewhat brightened for the last few days in consequence of the increased demand reported for American securities abroad We are now under less anxiety as to our foreign balances although our exports of produce continue limited because of the light stocks and high prices Corn is being shipped but the export in[illegible] [illegible] of other commodities is light Of petroleum the aggregate is nine millions of gallons below that of last year and the general aspect of business in the leading staples is such as to suggest speculation as to the controlling maximum of our mercantile and industrial enterprise for the present

The same policy [illegible] nearly the state of the money market [illegible] [illegible] are a[illegible] [illegible] offered by the agents [illegible] large amounts of paper [illegible] movement [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] averages of our city bank [illegible] during the past few weeks It is probable the city banks should be thus rendered able to respond to the legitimate demands for discounts which will be made from the mercantile community in the fall the money market will be in a condition in which our merchants will find it well to have their credit engagements under as complete control as possible

Still there is less apprehension of stringency than recently prevailed Capital is likely to be abundant in this market for several months to come and if so call loans may rule at low rates however it may be with discounts Our reason for expecting an influx of capital here is the plethora which is likely to prevail in the European money markets in consequence of the recent French loan This loan has had the most singular success In amount it far surpasses any previous government loan ever negotiated in one operation by any nation in Europe From the official reports we find that while the amount of money asked for was about $[illegible]00 000 000 the subscriptions were twelve times as much or $8 200 000 000 of which stupendous sum there was subscribed in Paris $2 [illegible] 000 000 in the Departments $8[illegible] [illegible]0 000 and the remaining $4 730 000 000 abroad. Thus the Departments alone without Paris could have taken the whole loan and France herself apart from foreign aid subscribed for $3 170 000 000 or nearly five times the whole Never in the history of finance has so magnificent an achievement been recorded

It has been pointed out that there are some deductions to be made from the glory of this success —that it was well known that the subscriptions would exceed the awards that multitudes of persons who wanted a certain amount were thus induced to subscribe a larger amount and that facilities were given for this purpose by making the deposits in Paris payable in securities instead of in cash For our present purpose we have little concern with these circumstances The fact is patent that the loan stood on the 16th inst at 1½ premium This proves the existence of vast masses of capital which sought the loan and were crowded out of the investment And it is this capital so disappointed of employment on which in part we rely for the supply of our own loan market

But there is another circumstance which must not be lost sight of In a short time the payments will begin from France to Germany These will cause an unusual concentration of deposits in London The indemnity money after its payment to Germany will still lie for a time in the London banks How long it will remain there is of course uncertain but so long as it does remain its presence will operate to depress the rate of interest in England and thus to favor the movement of British capital towards our market

Such are some of the chief aspects of our money market as affected both by its own internal movements and by others originating from abroad As to any trouble which may arise later in connection with the drain of gold from London and from the consequent attempts which may perhaps be made by the Bank of England to put up the rate of interest, this probability is already attracting discussion in England but is too remote to affect us here at present

THE WATER SUPPLY QUESTION

The following is the report of Wm E Morris, Engineer in relation to the Water Supply Question which was submitted to the Common Council last Saturday evening

PORTLAND June 28 18 2

To the Honorable Committee on Water Supply for the City of Portland Having made the examinations calculations and estimates necessary in the investigation of the subject of a full supply of pure water for your city, I herewith submit the result

By instructions from your Committee the quantity of water proposed to be furnished, without enlargement of the works, was taken at three million gallons in 24 hours And in case the reservoir system should be adopted, three fourths of this quantity have been considered as the portion consumed in the lower portions of the city and one fourth is to be delivered into a reservoir having its surface 250 feet above the established base of grades of the city

The hight of the bottom of the present high service reservoir at Sixth and Lincoln is 158 feet above the base of grades and its usual surface about 180 feet and the hight of the lower reservoir at Fourth and Market is 85 feet above the base line

SOURCES OF SUPPLY

Rejecting other possible sources, the following only have been considered worthy of being presented, viz

1st. Gravity Works from the Clackamas or its tributaries

2d Stephens Springs, from the east side of the Willamette

3d Pumping direct from the Willamette

1ST—GRAVITY WORKS.

The available sources of supply for this character of works, are found only upon the east side of the Willamette, and are really confined to the waters of the Clackamas

The upper waters of the Sandy flow in a region less accessible to Portland by canal or conduit than the Clackamas, and would have to be brought by a circuitous route to the same point of terminus for the conduit on Matlock's Hill, as the Clackamas, and for many months, it is stated, while high, by reason of the rains, or the melting of the snow, there is much fine sand carried suspended in its waters which would be deposited in the conduit, or reach the city

A careful examination, in part by instrumental survey, has been made of the country between East Portland, and a point upon Eagle Creek a branch of the Clackamas, four miles above Foster's. Eagle Creek empties into the Clackamas near Foster's It is a very rapid stream, and four miles from Foster's there are falls of some forty feet.

It has at all times a volume of water much larger than required for your supply, and is one of the purest of the tributaries of the Clackamas The rapids of the main stream are some ten miles above Foster's, to which it would be necessary to extend the conduit in order to obtain sufficient elevation to bring the water into the city at as high a point as has been fixed, viz 250 feet above the city base of grades And to this height the water, if brought by conduit, should be made to rise Eagle Creek is nearer by five or six miles than the rapids in the Clackamas, and the works at the head of a conduit could be much more cheaply constructed and maintained upon the tributary than upon the main stream. In case, therefore, of a resort to Gravity Works, Eagle Creek is the stream that should be brought in

At the falls no dam would be necessary a short iron pipe or wooden flume would reach the bank, where a moderate excavation would carry the water on to the top of the bank. This bank immediately widens to a level plateau, reaching to the Clackamas, and extending down the same to the valley of Deep Creek, a distance from the falls of Eagle Creek of about seven miles For this distance there is almost a natural water course, and probably the stream once ran there There would be but little cost to convert the seven miles into a canal of any dimensions, and no extra expenses would attend the construction of a conduit, Leaving this plateau the valley of Deep Creek is encountered, it lies about one hundred feet below the plateau, and, in constructing the conduit, must probably be crossed by laying pipes across the bottom of the valley

From Deep Creek to Matlock's, or Philips' Hill, which skirts the southeastern side of the valley of Johnston's Creek, the country is very broken and irregular. Upon this section occur Buck Creek and Matlock's Creek, each forming deep valleys, and much wider than that of Deep Creek Besides these there are numerous others of less extent to be crossed by embankments, with culverts under them, or by pipes laid in the bottoms of the valleys

From Deep Creek to Johnston's Creek the above survey [illegible] the adoption of a very circuitous [illegible] ing the distance, as compared with the traveled road, at least fifty per cent.

The valley of Johnston's Creek is 186 feet above the base of city grades, being 79 feet below the proper height for the conduit, and upon the west, or northwest side of the creek, no high ground exists upon which to locate the line of conduit.

If, therefore, the water is to be brought into Portland at the proposed elevation of 250 feet, then the conduit must terminate at Matlock's Hill, and an iron pipe must be substituted, extending into East Portland, and from there cross upon the bed of the river and up the west side to the point selected for the Portland reservoir The point on Matlock's Hill, of this elevation, is near the house of William Johnston, in north part of N W quarter of Sec No. 32, Township 1, N of Range 2, East of Willamette Meridian

By the above route the approximate length of conduit and pipe required would be as follows, viz .

From falls of Eagle Creek to Matlock's Hill, 19 miles of conduit and 2½ miles of pipe

From Matlock's Hill to East Portland, 6½ miles of pipe, making 19 miles of conduit and nine miles of iron pipe, and the whole distance, 28 miles, being four miles longer than the direct road

OPEN CANAL

It may be a question, in the minds of many, whether the 19 miles above mentioned as conduit, might not properly be made an open canal, instead of a close conduit, and thus a large expenditure be saved

By the adoption of a canal, and the construction of wooden flumes across most of the ravines and streams, a comparatively cheap structure could be built, but it would be perishable and [illegible] and liable to great loss of water by leakage, absorption and evaporation The water in it would be subject to the injurious action of the sun, especially powerful upon bodies of water of so small depth and volume And it would also be rendered impure by vegetable growth, and deposit from the leaves limbs and flowers of the forest trees.

Such an improvement would not, in my judgment, prove satisfactory to your city, and I have not, therefore, taken it into consideration

BRICK CONDUIT

This is the proper plan on which to build a gravity system of water supply, being free from all the objections that apply to an open canal, durable, requiring no repairs, and not being very expensive.

To avoid the heavy expense of high embankments or bridges, in crossing the larger valleys, cast iron pipes would be substituted, passing to the bottom of the valley and rising again upon the opposite side to the proper level

DIMENSIONS OF CONDUIT

Three millions of gallons per day having been fixed as the proper supply to be provided at present, and the works to be built with reference to an increased supply, it would be proper to build the conduit of sufficient size to deliver at least six million gallons in 24 hours

As much of the route requires numerous abrupt curves in the conduit, it ought to have an internal diameter of thirty six inches, and a fall of two feet per mile

The cheapest and best form in which to build it will be circular, having two courses of brick on edge, laid in hydraulic cement with a ring of cement plastering between the two courses of brick, and also upon the outer surface

At present, but a small reservoir would be required in Portland, or it might be omitted entirely for several years

The same system of distributing pipe would be used as is described for the pumping works

CROSSING THE WILLAMETTE RIVER

To reach Portland it is necessary to lay a submerged pipe, upon the bed of the river A suitable place to cross is found, starting from Brooklyn or from the vicinity of Mr Stephens' house in East Portland, and landing at the foot of Mill street, or near it, in Portland

By reference to the soundings of the river taken by the United States Engineers and now in possession of Col Chapman, and by his kindness shown to me, it appears that, on the above line, the deepest water at a low stage, is 22 feet, and that the bottom has a regular surface indicating but little difficulty in laying a submerged pipe

In case the bridge was built before such pipe was laid, the difficulty and expense would be lessened, as, in that case the submerged pipe need only extend the length of the draw of the bridge

At the place mentioned the width of the river at low water, as shown by the United States map is 1 800 feet

2D—STEPHENS' SPRING

This is a remarkably fine, never failing spring of pure, soft water issuing in two or three streams from the foot of the gravel ridge a second rise that skirts the east side of the Willamette Valley in this region for many miles and known now in this locality as the 'Big Burn.'

It is in a south-easterly direction, about 2½ miles from East Portland is now used to drive a saw mill owned by Mr J B Stephens and flows thence into Johnston's Creek and by it into the Willamette at Milwaukie partly furnishing at that place the power to drive the Standard Mills

Into the pool of Mr Stephens dam the waters of a strong spring owned by Mr Kelley, have been conducted from the adjoining property

The flow of the whole water from both springs was measured by me on the 3d of this month June and found to be eight million gallons in 24 hours To be certain that only the regular and natural flow of the springs was obtained Mr Stephens kindly arranged that the mill should not start on that morning which was Monday until after the measurement was made The mill had stood, without running from Saturday night thus making certain the uniformity of the flow

The elevation of the pool of the saw-mill dam in which the springs are now collected, is above the base of grades of the City of Portland 53½ feet and above the corner of Front and Washington 33½ feet

In regard to the constancy of the spring, the statements of Mr Stephens and of the men running the mill, and of Mr Kelly who owns the adjoining property, on which is the spring above referred to as Kelly's Spring—all agree that the flow of water does not vary materially that it is least in the late autumn and in the winter and that from May to August, the volume of water increases It was thought by these men to be but little above its minimum flow at the time it was measured by me

It is proposed to bring the water of this spring of Mr Stephens or of both the Stephens' and Kelly Springs, to East Portland by a brick conduit and across the river by a submerged pipe, to a point near the foot of Mill street, and at that place erect pumping machinery, and by it elevate this water into reservoirs, or send it direct through the distributing pipes to the consumers

As there will be no short curves in this pipe, or but few it may be of less diameter than the one proposed for Eagle Creek—31 inches will be sufficient From the spring to the end of conduit near Mr Stephens house in East Portland, is about 12 500 feet, being a little over two and one third miles Fall of conduit, 2½ feet per mile.

It would be judicious to secure both the Stephens' and the Kelly Springs, but the latter is not essential, as it furnishes but a small part of the water

There ought to be purchased with the springs several acres of ground, on which should be erected a house for a family, to have an oversight of the springs inlet &c

The water of the springs should be confined to as small an area as possible, making a small but deep receiving reservoir The pond now covers some twenty acres,—it might probably be reduced to a single acre or less.

A moderate expense in grading, making walks and planting trees, would make it a very attractive spot

3D—PUMPING DIRECT FROM THE WILLAMETTE

The most natural source of supply, and by far the cheapest in outlay of money, is evidently the Willamette river It flows directly past the city front It is unfailing in its quantity, and as far as short acquaintance allows an opinion unusually pure As I understand, it is never muddy and seldom so turbid as to require time to settle, or need filtering, to be fit for domestic use As compared with the Mississippi, Ohio, Susquehanna, Delaware, Schuylkill, Connecticut and other rivers it deserves to stand before them all

No spot having been named by your Committee for the location of an engine house, I have assumed a location that appears suitable, convenient to the line crossing the river and not expensive to improve, viz at the foot of Mill street, or vicinity, and close in against the foot of the high ground.

Whether the supply be taken from the waters of the Willamette, or from that bridge from Stephens spring substantially the same buildings and machinery will be required to raise the water to the proper hights, and the same mains and pipes will be required in the city Neither will the cost vary materially A different arrangement only of the machinery would be required, owing to the fact that the water from the spring would reach the pump house some fifty feet in elevation above low water in the river.

To this location it has been proposed to bring the water from Stephens' spring, and whether or not it should be the final location of a pumping station, it will answer well for an estimate of costs, and a comparison with other plans

To render access to the river easy for wood supplies, it is proposed to construct a wharf from the engine house to low water, upon which to land and store wood. Upon the wharf a railway track will be laid with light iron, to be traversed by a car, delivering the wood to the boiler house This structure would be about 600 feet in length, and to bring the river water to the pumps, an inlet pipe of about the same length would be required.

MACHINERY.

As there is so great a difference in the elevation of the higher and lower portions of the city, it will be necessary to have two different systems of distribution, and pumping machinery for each Probably the best elevation at which to divide the two will be about seventy five feet above the city base of grades, The line is marked upon the map showing the system of distribution, as is also the line of one hundred feet elevation

If reservoirs are used, that for the low service ought to have an elevation of about 125 feet above the base line, that for the high service has already been fixed at 250 feet above the same line. The machinery to be now provided must supply these two districts, and be sufficiently large to avoid any addition to it for many years.

Three million gallons per day has been fixed as the supply to be furnished, and this quantity to be divided in the proportion of three gallons below to one gallon above—or 2,250,000 gallons below and 750,000 gallons above But in case of any error that there may be in this division it would be judicious in fixing the capacity of the engines to allow a little margin to cover such an error We will consider, therefore, the daily capacity of high service engine, one million gallons, and that of low service engines two millions and a half gallons making total capacity, three and a half millions gallons This machinery in order to be maintained with little cost, and to operate with good economy of fuel, should have slow motion and ample boiler capacity.

ASCENDING MAINS

There should be two pumping mains, one connecting the larger pump, with the lower system of distribution and with the lower reservoir, the other making similar connections with the upper system of distribution and the upper reservoir, yet being so connected that either pump, if desired, might be made to work into either main The larger main should be eighteen inches diameter and the smaller one twelve inches diameter, as far as the lower reservoir, and from there to upper reservoir it should be enlarged to 18 inches, for the purpose of serving, at times of fire as a distributing main from the upper reservoir, and to transfer to the lower service, and throughout the city, the pressure of the upper reservoir—the connection with the lower reservoir being for the time closed Thus a most efficient fire pressure would be quickly established throughout the city

The mains will require 4,260 feet of 18 inch pipe, and 2,000 feet of 12-inch pipe

RESERVOIRS

If the reservoir system should be adopted two of them would be required one having its surface, as before stated, 125 feet, and the other 250 feet above the city base of grades

Governed by the proportion of water assumed to be required in the two divisions the lower reservoir should have three times the capacity of the upper

As the water coming from either Stephens Spring, or the Willamette river, will seldom require time to become clear by subsidence small reservoirs only will be required holding but enough for a single day's supply The machinery, therefore, will not be required to run at night for several years and can stop for a day to make repairs, and be better able to keep everything in complete order than if required to run constantly day and night, without intermission In fact water from either of these sources, especially from Stephens' Springs, will be preferable for domestic use if passed direct to the consumers and not allowed to enter the reservoirs,—and usually the connections of the pipes should be so arranged that the pumps would discharge directly into the distribution pipes, the surplus only reaching the reservoirs to be used at night and at times of fires and when the engines are not in operation To render as small as practicable any action of the sun upon the water in the reservoirs the depth in them in the summer should be kept at from fourteen to sixteen feet.

A single block will answer for the lower reservoir and half a block, or less for the upper one and their assumed location is marked upon the map showing the distribution

DISTRIBUTION

This is the most costly part of your works as of water works generally, and it is the part most frequently defective—having the pipes too small The result of this defect is, that at times of fire and at other times when the demand is active, the pressure due to the head is not maintained and the higher points are not supplied, and the hydrant discharges are feeble To avoid these difficulties, large supply pipes should reach well into the heart of the city It is therefore, proposed to extend from both reservoirs an 18 inch pipe to the corner of Madison and Second—carrying along Second from Madison to Washington, a 16 inch pipe and there reducing it to 12 inches This main to have large branches in several streets, at proper intervals running at right angles to the principal main in Second street and these connecting again with 6 inch mains parallel to Second street. These 6 inch mains as a general rule to be laid in every third street—the intermediate streets parallel to Second street to have 4 inch pipes This will give as a system in the north and south streets one 6 inch pipe then two 4 inch pipes, then another 6 inch and so on

A similar arrangement will be carried out for the high service the principal supply pipe being in Seventh street

Much of the 18 inch pumping main will serve also for this proposed 18 inch distributing main

Herewith is submitted a map exhibiting at a glance, the system of distribution Upon it also is shown by dotted lines in red ink the contour lines of 75 feet and 100 feet above the city base of grades

At the proper points, in laying the pipes the upper and lower systems of supply will be separated by stop cocks or the pipes when laid will not be connected, as may in each street be deemed advisable

In this plan of distribution, no pipes are contemplated to be laid in the east and west streets except the large mains before spoken of But few buildings front on these streets and but little pipe will be required and that may be 1 or 2 inch and in most cases a service pipe will answer

The whole quantity of distribution pipe provided for excluding the pumping mains is 27½ miles

Street hydrants or fire plugs are estimated as placed upon the large mains in the north and south streets, at every cross street, and upon the 4 inch mains in the intermediate streets at every fourth cross street except on Front street where they ought to be placed at every second cross street Whole number of hydrants required by this arrangement, 240

In considering the extent of the distribution covered by this plan, and the large quantity of pipe required by it, and its large cost it is to be borne in mind, that it includes a very great deal of unimproved property, and it is believed that the inconvenience would not seriously be felt if so much of it were postponed, as to save at present in the cost of distribution, $100 000

As a basis of comparison it may be stated here that the present Water Company of Portland have now in use but about 5 miles of distributing pipe while the foregoing plan requires 27½ miles

HOLLY SYSTEM

This may be considered as a modification of the Second and Third plans—using the same sources of supply and the same system of distribution, but dispensing with the reservoirs, and the greater part of the mains leading to them, and pumping day and night continuously to keep up the supply and having machinery of sufficient capacity not only to maintain the daily regular demand, but having a surplus in capacity and power large enough, at the same time, to furnish any increased quantity of water necessary at times of fire and to deliver the whole, both the regular supply and the increased fire supply, at a pressure about double that at which the ordinary pumping is done. If the machinery in the Holly System is made sufficient to furnish the same quantity of water per day, as hereinbefore estimated for at its regular and proper daily rate of pumping, and is also made able to deliver it at the increased pressure and at the same time to add to the additional quantity required for fire purposes, it is evident that this machinery, with its additional boilers and foundations, ought to cost a much larger sum than the machinery required to pump the same quantity of water into the reservoirs I have considered it fair to allow $20,000 for this increase

At page — of this report I give the result of a recent examination of the operation of this system

Having, in the preceding pages, stated the most available sources of water supply, and described the plans adapted thereto it now remains to give their

WROUGHT IRON PIPE

Where pipe has been introduced it has in all cases been considered as [illegible]

Wrought iron though used quite extensively in California, has not been used in the East for Water Works on account of its greater liability to rust The use of asphaltum varnish to prevent rust is comparatively a recent introduction

If upon a careful examination of varnished wrought iron pipes, that have been in use several years it shall be found that the varnish has proved a reliable protection then it might be introduced especially for some of the larger pipes with considerable saving in cost Some wrought iron pipes examined by me on the Fourth street main in this city do not give evidence of much durability

ANNUAL COST OF PUMPING

If taken from the Willamette to raise 300 000 gallons daily 250 feet high and 900 000 gallons daily 125 feet high will cost	$12 000 per annum
If taken from the springs of Mr Stephens will cost	$11 000 per annum
To raise 600 000 gallons daily 250 feet high and 2 000 000 gallons daily 125 feet high from the river	$25 000 per annum
From Stephens springs	$22 000 per annum

PRESENT WORKS

These belong to a private company They have three sources of supply viz Balch Creek Caruthers Creek and pumping from the Willamette river

Balch and Caruthers Creeks both have a considerable flow of water during the rainy season but in dry weather the former dwindles to a very small stream, and the latter becomes entirely dry

On the 11th inst (June) the flow of both these streams was measured by me and found to be as follows

Balch Creek [illegible]
Caruthers [illegible]

Total [illegible]

At the same time I was informed by Mr Green of the present Works the Worthington Engine was running slowly during the whole 24 hours making 1 single stroke per minute At 14 inches length of stroke about the average each single stroke would deliver seven gallons of water which would give 453 600 gallons in 24 hours Adding Balch and Caruthers Creeks 111 400 gallons in 24 hours as the present daily amount supplied to the city

The Balch Creek main is six inches diameter, and viewing it as terminating at the Bishop Scott Grammar School where there is a summit and where distribution begins it is 8 100 feet long to that point and has a head of forty feet Under these circumstances with a good pipe well laid it would deliver in 24 hours about 600 000 gallons The Caruthers Creek supply pipe is 1 00 feet long and 4 inches diameter and has a head of 9 feet in 24 hours it would deliver 540 000 gallons Total capacity of both pipes 1 140 000 gallons

The capacity of both could be increased by extending the pipes further up the streams if deemed advantageous for an increased supply in winter

In regard to the value of these streams as a permanent supply From the above statement of their flow in summer it is evident they in dry weather have little value unless their surplus water of winter can be treasured in reservoirs In my opinion they are not well suited for the construction of reservoirs because the valleys are narrow their sides precipitous and the fall of the streams very great —and the streams at times of heavy rain, becoming perfect torrents would carry down earth and vegetable matter, and in a short time fill up any reservoirs that might be built and before the reservoirs became filled up the character of these deposits would injure the quality of the water Besides this the great fall of the streams and narrowness of their valleys prevent the construction of large reservoirs at any moderate cost

The President of the Water Company has furnished the following description of the machinery and reservoirs and statement of pipe laid

ENGINES AND PUMPS

One Condensing Cornish Engine—20 inch diameter and four feet stroke, with two 8 inch pumps attached Engine and machinery designed to run two 10 inch pumps when necessary —with tubular boiler fourteen feet by forty inches in diameter

One Duplex Worthington Pump—with two 20 inch steam cylinders and two 12 inch water cylinders 15 inch stroke Boiler sixteen feet long and 5½ feet diameter, with seventy three 1 inch tubes Either pump can be run by either boiler, singly or both at once

One Donkey Engine for Filling Tank, etc

"Sixth Street Reservoir—Located on Block No 32, Caruthers' Addition—block 212x200 feet—bottom of reservoir 168 feet above the base of grades divided into two compartments, each side 65 1 10 feet wide by 152 1 10 feet long on the bottom at the top 87 1 10 feet wide by 188 1 10 feet long and sixteen feet deep

Fourth Street Reservoir—Located at the corner of Market and Fourth streets is ninety five feet above the base of grades is ninety feet square and sixteen feet deep

MAINS AND PIPES

Of 12 inch wrought iron 1 400 feet and 7½ inch do, do 10 400 feet of 6 inch cast iron 10 000 feet, 4 inch do, do 26 720 feet, and of 3 and 2 inch do, 1 640 feet Total 50 2 0 feet or eleven miles and 1 170 feet There are of this about 3 miles and 1,170 feet of supply mains leaving 8 miles of distribution pipe proper Cisterns, 13 stop cock and gates, 27 and hydrants 22

The machinery appears to be in good condition The reservoirs are well planned and built and the connections with the pipes judiciously arranged The arrangement of pumping mains, however is such that only one engine at a time can with propriety be run Their capacity, after leaving the 12 inch main, being two 6 inch mains and a 4 inch, and at the end of the two 6 inch mains, is reduced for a short distance, to one 7 inch and a 4 inch The two sizes and the 4 inch, with their turns and connections have not, as pumping mains, more than half the capacity of the 12 inch There ought to be two mains, one leading to each reservoir

The capacity of these engines for regular continuous daily duty is as follows

Cornish Engine —Two single acting pumps, 8 inch diameter and four feet stroke at twenty revolutions per minute, and allowing 8½ per cent for loss and leakage, would give in twenty four hours, 654,000 gallons

Worthington Pumping Engine —Two double acting cylinders, 12 inches diameter, averaging 14 inches stroke, and running at one hundred strokes per minute, and allowing 3 per cent for loss and leakage, would give, in 24 hours, 960,000 gallons Total 1 610,000 gallons

If the machinery of the Cornish Engine will allow the pump to be enlarged to ten inches, its capacity would be increased about fifty per cent The distributing mains, while answering fairly for a moderate service if used for a much increased supply, ought to be connected with larger mains There are 1 400 feet of 12 inch and about 10 400 feet of wrought iron pipe besides some 1 2 and 3 inch tubing Of its quality and condition, I can give no opinion further than to say that the surface of the 12 inch pipe crossing the low ground upon the trestle work and covered by tan bark is in good condition but the 7½ inch main that can be seen in Fourth street above Market, does not give evidence that the asphalt coating will permanently protect the iron.

In view of the questions that have arisen as to the quality and purity of the water now supplied to the city, I would suggest that arrangements be made with the present Water Company to test separately the water of the river and that of Balch Creek Let Caruthers Creek be entirely shut off Let one of the divisions of the Sixth Street Reservoir be entirely emptied of water and well cleaned out and then filled with the river water exclusively and kept well filled and let the water of Balch Creek be confined to the takers along the Balch Creek pipe and the Fourth Street Reservoir also emptied and cleaned and then also supplied exclusively from the river and kept full A few months use of the river water would decide the question as to its merits—and the takers along the Balch Creek pipe would know the quality of its water This experiment could be made at little cost to the Water Company and it would seem a desirable one to the Company as well as to the city as it would settle questions in which both are interested

It would be well also for a committee to visit Salem and examine the reservoir there which is supplied from the Willamette and compare the condition and appearance of its water with that of the reservoirs in Portland The opinions of the water takers here might have some weight in the question

NEW REMEDIES, NEW REMEDIES

Dr Gibbon's Dispensary,

623 KEARNEY STREET, NEAR COMMERCIAL, San Francisco Established in 1854 for the treatment of Sexual and Seminal Diseases such as Gonorrhœa, Gleet Stricture Syphilis in all its forms Seminal Weakness, Impotency, etc Skin Diseases (of years standing) and Ulcerated Legs successfully treated

DR GIBBON has the pleasure of announcing that he has returned from visiting the principal Hospitals of Europe and has resumed practice at his Dispensary 623 Kearny street corner of Commercial San Francisco where his old patients and those requiring his services may find him

The Doctor has spared neither time nor money in seeking out new remedies and has returned with increased facilities for the alleviation of human suffering

Horrible Diseases,

How many thousands of persons both male and female are there who are suffering out a miserable existence from the effects of secret indulgences or from virus absorbed into the system Look at their pallid emaciated and disfigured faces and their broken down constitutions disqualifying them for the happiness of marriage or the enjoyment of life In this horrid situation thousands suffer until death closes the scene Let parents guardians friends attend to those who are suffering with any of these horrible, life-destroying maladies and that they are cared for and cured before it be too late. Send them immediately to DR GIBBON a physician who has made private diseases his especial study for years and who is certain to cure the most inveterate case, without mercury or any injurious drugs. It is important to those who are afflicted or to those who are interested in the welfare of their friends to be careful of the many pretended doctors who in all cities, publishing their skill in curing all diseases in a few days imposing upon the public by using the names of eminent physicians from Europe and other places. Be therefore careful and make strict inquiry or you may fall into the hands of those charlatans.

Seminal Weakness.

Seminal Emissions, the consequence of self-abuse. This solitary vice or depraved sexual indulgence is practiced by the youth of both sexes to an almost unlimited extent, producing with unerring certainty, the following train of morbid symptoms, unless combatted by scientific medical measures viz Sallow countenance dark spots under the eyes pain in the head ringing in the ears, noise like the rustling of leaves and rattling of chariots uneasiness about the loins weakness of the limbs confused vision blunted intellect loss of confidence diffidence in approaching strangers a dislike to form new acquaintances disposition to shun society loss of memory hectic flushes, pimples and various eruptions about the faces furred tongue fetid breath coughs consumption night sweats, monomania and frequent insanity If relief be not obtained should apply immediately either in person or by letter and have a cure effected by his new and scientific mode of treating this disease, which never fails of effecting a quick and radical cure Dr G will give One Hundred Dollars to any person who will prove satisfactorily to him that he was cured of this complaint by either of the San Francisco quacks

MARRIED MEN.

Or those who contemplate marriage who are suffering under any of these [illegible] maladies, should not forget the sacred responsibility resting upon them nor delay to obtain immediate relief.

DOCTOR GIBBON is responsible and will give to each patient a written instrument binding himself to effect a radical and permanent cure or make no charge.

CURED AT HOME.

Persons at a distance may be CURED AT HOME, by addressing a letter to Dr Gibbon, stating case, symptoms, length of time the disease had continued, and have medicines promptly forwarded, free from damage and curiosity, to any part of the country, with full and plain directions By inclosing Ten Dollars coin, in registered letter through the Postoffice or through Wells, Fargo & Co., a package of medicine will be forwarded to any part of the Union.

All communications strictly confidential.

Caution to the Unfortunate.

Beware of the San Francisco [illegible] and pretenders who, with bogus sworn-to certificates, dupe the unwary some of the self styled doctors, whose names are to be found in the daily and weekly newspapers of San Francisco and other places are tradesmen and became too lazy too work at their trades Some are tinsmiths, shoemakers, [illegible] paper carriers, intelligence office keepers, etc The only way to avoid imposition is to make inquiry—it will cost you nothing and may save you many regrets for as advertising physicians in eight cases out of ten are bogus, there is no safety in trusting any of them until you know who and what they are. Dr Gibbon does not deceive people by exhibiting bogus titles, certificates, pretended patients' letters, etc. Dr Gibbon will satisfy persons who may call at his offices of his ability to treat all that he proposes to cure.
